

Whether by yourself or with friends, taking tea is an act of civility. Tea conjures up feelings of elegance and gentility. The staff of Buster House Tea Room work diligently to create a very special and calming ambiance for your pleasure.

The Buster House Tea Room is located at the rear of Castlemoyle Books and Gifts in the newly restored Historic Hotel Revere in downtown Pomeroy. It is named after the hotel's original restaurant and Martha Pomeroy's grandson Eugene "Buster" Pomeroy. Martha Pomeroy (St. George) was co-foundress of Pomeroy and the original owner of the hotel.

The Buster House Tea Room's goal is to help you step back into a gentler, simpler time where one's only care is keeping up your end of conversation. Your every need will be tended to by experienced staff dressed in a style reminiscent of the Edwardian era.

Tea at the Buster House is truly a sensational experience. Sit back and relax to the sound of gentle piano and harp melodies. Enjoy the aroma of the fresh flowers on your table, fine tea brewing, and delicious treats being baked in our kitchen. Delight your eyes with the glint of the sparkling crystal and the eclectic array of fine, vintage, china tea cups and serving pieces. Enjoy the feel of heavy silver and fine linen in your hands. Throughout the experience your taste buds will go from one delightful sensation to another.

The art of taking tea is an experience which should never be rushed. If it is to be enjoyed to its fullest you should allow one to one and a half hours for your meal at the Buster House Tea Room.
